Whoever said, "Laugh and the world laughs with you; weep and you weep alone," was indeed wise, for no truer sentiment was ever written. There is nothing so certain to make you dislodge as to tell your troubles to friends. Friendship means friendship. You are welcome everywhere. The world laughs at your witty sayings and makes merry with you. There comes a time when you are downhearted and fortune conspires to smile on you, and you look for sympathy from the dear friend who has shared your prosperity; but, alas! you look in vain, and there are some who kindly give you a balm. People prefer amazement, and the sight of a forlorn countenance is not pleasant. The best thing in the world to enforce your self to it, is to laugh at it. It is a great tonic. It is light and to our moral nature. To laugh at it is without something to do with the mind as clothes and shelter to the body. —Minneapolis Daily.

NOT TO KILL.
A girl in the Reño of a remark in to the Pretty Woman.

A girl in the window of the Hotel Monte Monday evening when a man with a number of Mexican dice, by one of them, named Juan Oro, saw the girl. His eyes kindled with admiration, and he called to her in Spanish, "Oh, my pretty one!" As he did so, the remark in the window of the hotel was fought between the pretty girl in her hand and the young man, and the girl was a widow. The contest was fierce, with 100,000 pesos, and seconds were called.

The wagon had got about a mile away from the house when the sound of a horse's hoofs were heard, and soon a man was seen to drive up, beating his horse in a vicious manner to increase his speed. The rider of the animal was Garcia, the young woman's husband, and he was gesticulating wildly to the men in the wagon. The wagon was brought to a standstill, and Garcia drove up. He rebuked the men for insulting his wife. The men in the wagon were inclined to regard the matter as a joke, but Garcia was terribly in earnest. He challenged Oroso to get off the wagon and fight him. Oroso, thinking Garcia meant an issue at fistfights, jumped from the wagon with alacrity. He was much the younger man and more active and lithe, and as he jumped from the wagon he called to his companions to watch how quickly he would "do" his opponent up.

Scarcely had Oroso got a few feet away from the wagon when Garcia pulled a revolver and began shooting at him. Oroso was somewhat dazed at first, but he pulled out a revolver and returned the fire. It is said that Garcia fired four shots and Oroso three, but anyway, after Oroso was through shooting, Garcia was hard to give a cry and fell back in the road. One of the bullets from Oroso's weapon had gone through his head. Oroso was shot through the right hand.

When Garcia fell, Oroso expressed his regret, and with his comrades drove back to El Monte. The jury brought in a verdict of killing in self defense.—Los Angeles Cor. San Francisco Examiner.

The Advertiser of the day.

It is useless for a Russian editor to put any jokes in his paper to please the czar, because his majesty never reads them. There is an official known as the censor, who gets up very early in the morning, so that he may read advance sheets of the various journals and select such matter as may be best calculated to please the czar and give him an appetite for breakfast. These sittings are then copied on sheets of fine paper and are deposited on his majesty's table for his perusal. Nothing about bombs or dynamite meets his eye, no comments on his tyranny, no remarks about Siberia—in fact, the czar is kept in total ignorance of his real position and how he is regarded by the world at large.—St Louis Post-Dispatch.

A Warning Wave of the Hand.

Four boys sat in a row on the tail of a big four horse truck, with their legs dangling off in the usual way. The truck was going down Broadway. To avoid something ahead the driver had turned from the west side of the roadway along which he had been moving up into the down track of the cable road. There it was still slow going for him, and a cable car that was coming along behind closed up pretty close. As the car neared the track the gripman motioned to the four boys. They all looked at the gripman intently, but at first they didn't understand at all. The gripman motioned again, and this time the boy at the front, as you looked forward from the car under-toe, he shifted back on the track and drew his feet up so that they no longer projected. Then, one after another, in quick succession, the other three pairs of legs went up. They all under-toed it now. In the days of the horse cars the horses were a sort of buffer between the car and the track. Sometimes they put their noses over the boys' shoulders, sometimes they swayed off to one side or the other, but, though they gave a margin of time in which to scramble up, and often a margin in space in which to stop the car. But the cable car, with its natural habit of keeping well closed up and with nothing to serve as a buffer, is more likely to come in contact with a truck ahead, especially if the truck should be halted unexpectedly or forced backward, and any pair of legs that should be caught between the end of a truck and the rigid projecting frame of a cable car would be pretty sure to be broken.

Hence the wave of the gripman's hand.—New York Sun.

NEVADA STATE JOURNAL.

FRIDAY, JUNE 22, 1894.

THE WORK OF CONGRESS

The Washington correspondent of the JOURNAL states that the Democrats in Congress seem intent only on repealing Republican legislation, while the Republicans pose only as obstructivists. This view of the situation at Washington is more apparent than real. Only two acts placed on the statutes by Republicans have been repealed by the present Congress. One of them was the Bullion Purchase or Sherman act and the other the Federal Elections act. The bill repealing the Sherman act was endorsed by the Wall Street combination and received as many votes, proportionately, from the Republicans as from the Democrats. The Federal Elections bill was repealed principally by Democratic votes, though many Republicans did not object to striking it from the statutes. The tariff bill now before the Senate is simply to change schedules and, from present indications, is intended to benefit the manufacturers of the east at the expense of the farmers and miners of the west.

There was an act placed upon the statutes by a Republican congress which the Democrats do not attempt to repeal, though it is beyond reasonable doubt the great cause of the present industrial and financial depression. With the Administration and both houses of Congress Democratic that act is permitted to remain undisturbed. Fifty per cent of the Democrats and ninety per cent of the Republicans in the House of Representatives are opposed to its repeal, and though two-thirds of the people of the United States attribute the unprecedented dull times and low prices to the act it remains on the statute books as it did under Republican administrations because Wall Street, which controls a majority of both parties and dictates the financial policy of Republican and Democratic administrations, so decrees. That act limits the legal tender power of silver coins to five dollars and closes the mints against the coining of silver on private account, and it was approved February 17, 1873.

A PHASE OF THE TARIFF QUESTION.

We are thoroughly posted on all the phases and ins and outs of the tariff question, except this, a tariff on sugar makes it dearer to the consumer, but a tariff under the McKinley bill on all other protected articles makes their price cheaper for the people. We can't hardly get the rationale of this difference through our hair, and we have not much hair either. Will some brother of the quill post us on this point and our education will be complete on the tariff problem.

The Silver State, in which the above appears, should in its search for information ascertain if it is a fact that the tariff affects the price of sugar and other articles differently. A few years ago newspaper correspondents stated that the bodies of persons drowned in Lake Tahoe never rose to the surface and that even a dead fish would not float on its waters. A man of a philosophical turn of mind, when asked his opinion of the cause of the phenomena, replied that he would first ascertain if it was a fact before attempting to account for it. Upon inquiry he found that dead fish would not float on its surface as in other waters. If the Silver State will investigate it, will probably discover that the tariff affects sugar as it does wool and all other dutiable articles.

WHEN Seales, the Secretary of the Sugar Trust, was before the Senate Investigating Committee, he said he believed it was right and proper for corporations to contribute funds to political campaigns as parties are now managed. The Trust contributed to the Democratic campaign fund in New York and to the Republican campaign fund in Massachusetts and Pennsylvania, and thus maintained its standing with both parties, and with Quay, McPherson and other Senators and Representatives sharing in its profits it felt perfectly safe.

A PRIVATE soldier, Onias C. Cedergren, noted for his piety, has been placed under arrest at Fort Omaha, Nebraska, for refusing to engage in target practice on Sunday in compliance with the order of Major Worth. He is to be tried by court-martial and the decision will be looked for with interest, as it is against the rules of the army to order unnecessary work on the Sabbath.

CONSUL GIBSON of Guaymas has reported to Secretary Gresham the rumor that two Americans have been killed and eaten by cannibals on Tiburon Islands, Lower California. The Mexican Government has been asked to punish the Indians and troops have been sent to investigate. It is believed in Mexico that one of the men killed is a newspaper correspondent and will reappear with a sensation for his paper.

A mob of several thousand persons at St. Johns, New Newfoundland, tried to take goods from the wharves without paying duty. The Governor called upon the commander of the war ship Buzzard for assistance, and the mob dispersed. The city is under martial law.

Mrs. Marietta Cheshire, aged 60, married William Castle, aged 18, at Greenlawn, Long Island. They were given a charivari, but upon treating the crowd to cider and molasses cake everything went merry.

CALIFORNIA REPUBLICANS.

Millard for Lieutenant Governor—Supreme Justices Nominated.

SACRAMENTO, June 21.—The Republican State Convention was slow in assembling this morning, it being 10:30 o'clock when Chairman Knight's gavel fell. All the principal nomination speeches were limited to five minutes and seconding speeches to three minutes.

For Lieutenant Governor S. G. Millard of Los Angeles was placed in nomination by Judge McLachlin of Los Angeles in an excellent speech.

Nominations were closed and Millard made the unanimous choice of the convention.

For Justices of the Supreme Court for the long term F. W. Henshaw of Alameda, E. S. Torrence of San Diego, J. J. De Haven of Humboldt, and J. W. McKinley of Los Angeles were placed in nomination. The ballot resulted as follows: Henshaw, 659; De Haven, 432; Torrence, 516; McKinley, 91. Henshaw and Torrence were declared the nominees.

For Supreme Justice for the short term W. C. Van Fleet of San Francisco and Judge Angelotti of Marin were placed in nomination. Van Fleet received 671 votes and Angelotti 167. Van Fleet was declared the nominee.

At 2:15 the convention took a recess till 3 o'clock.

During the recess the Fourth and Fifth Congressional District Conventions met in separate sessions. Both adjourned subject to the call of the Chair. This means that the conventions will meet in San Francisco during the summer for the nomination of Congressmen.

It is given out the slate for the remaining nominations is as follows:

Secretary of State—Brown of San Francisco.

Treasurer—Radcliffe of San Luis Obispo.

Controller—Colgan of Sonoma.

Surveyor General—Wright of Tulare.

Attorney General—Fitzgerald of San Francisco.

Superintendent of Public Instruction—Black of Ventura.

State Printer—Johnson of Sacramento.

Clerk of the Supreme Court—Lou Jacobs of San Francisco.

TROUBLE IN THE FORTY-NINE MINING CAMP.

Sam Davis Charges Manager Love with Embezzlement.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 21.—There is a lot of trouble in the '49 Mining Camp at the Midwinter Fair. Sam Davis has charged Manager Love with the crime of embezzlement and has sworn out a warrant for his arrest. Both men were Directors and stockholders of the company. Love has had charge of the business affairs of the show.

Davis charges that Love has caused the books to be falsified by naming salaries as having been paid to employees when in reality they were paid much less. This is a felony under the California statute. He also charges that Love and others have systematically defrauded the company by reselling tickets of admission and in other ways.

Manager Love was to take the overland for Chicago Wednesday evening, and Davis swore to the complaint just before the hour of the departure of the train. The officer was at the ferry, but Love did not appear.

Davis claims that he owns 5,000 shares in the company and notwithstanding the receipts have been over $40,000 he says he has never received a dollar from the camp. The opposing side are highly indignant at Davis' charges and claim that it is pure spite work on the part of Davis because he did not have any share in the management of the concession.

It is said that bad feeling has existed between Davis and Love, and that the whole thing has been trumped up to besmirch Love's reputation. The matter will likely come before the courts and will probably be thoroughly ventilated.

Suicide of a Young Lady.

PHILADELPHIA, June 21.—Pretty 16-year-old Lillian Turner was found dead in her bed at the home of her grandfather, Adam H. Wartham. The door of the room was locked, the crevices about the windows filled with paper and four gas burners in the room turned on full. Lillian's home was at Hubberly, N. Y., and she was living at her grandfather's here while attending the seminary.

The only cause known for her desire to die was the fact that she felt especially hurt because of a reprimand by her grandfather for staying out until 10:30 o'clock while taking a stroll with some girl companions.

CONGRESSIONAL PROCEEDINGS. The Senate Considering the Income Tax.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—The Senate took up the Income Tax to-day. Hill of New York assumed the leadership of the opposition to the bill. Hill contended that it would have been good politics to have avoided this unnecessary issue.

"I protest," he said, "against the repudiation of the promises of the Democratic party in order to adopt and carry out the promises of the Populist party. The most disastrous defeat the Democrats of Oregon experienced was the result of substituting new-fangled Populist principles for the good old principles of true Democracy. If this is the best leadership we can present in this great crisis, I for one must decline to follow it. I repudiate the spurious Democracy of the modern apostles and prophets who are part Mugwumps and part Populists."

The imposition of an income tax, Hill said, would drive New York, New Jersey and Connecticut into the Republican column, there to remain.

NOT GUILTY."

Dr. Watson's Plea for an Indictment for Perjury.

FRESNO, June 21.—Dr. C. V. P. Watson was arraigned yesterday on an indictment for perjury in the Heath case, which was found by the last Grand Jury, and pleaded not guilty." He was allowed to go on his own recognition, and the case will be taken up again on Monday.

The doctor did not testify in the last trial of Heath, but was indicted for his testimony in the first trial.

Watson was at Prescott, Arizona, at the time of his indictment. As soon as he heard of it which he did through the papers, he informed the District Attorney's office of his whereabouts, asking that he be informed when he was wanted. Before receiving an answer he came to have the matter settled. He found no warrant out for his arrest, and in an interview with District Attorney Church learned that the latter would move for a dismissal of the charge.

Mr. Church says that the Grand Jury found the indictment contrary to his advice. He informed them at the time that they had not sufficient evidence to convict and that he had had no occasion since then to change the opinion.

SUTRO WILL TALK.

A Mass Meeting to Protest Against the Funding Bill.

OAKLAND, June 21.—There will be a mass meeting at Mills Tabernacle this evening to protest against the passage of the Funding Bill now before Congress. The meeting will be held under the auspices of the County Central Committee of the People's party, and although all the speakers have not yet been decided upon, it is assured that Adolph Sutro will deliver the speech of the evening.

It is expected that this meeting will duplicate the mass meeting held at Metropolitan Temple in San Francisco Tuesday evening, at least in point of attendance and enthusiasm. Among the speakers will also be the Hon. J. V. Webster, Populist nominee for Governor, and many other prominent citizens.

Robbers Return Plunder.

TACOMA, Wash., June 21.—The first large party of Easterners to arrive over the Northern Pacific since the floods began is here to-night. Peter Alexander of Mapleton, Iowa, a member of the party, says the train robbers who held up the train near Thompson's Falls secured $1,300 in money and jewelry. They amused and surprised everybody by returning everything the next day, as the floods on all sides prevented them from getting away with the booty.

John Rommell, a wealthy farmer of Mount Holly, committed suicide because the dry weather of early spring and the subsequent wet weather left crops in a bad condition.

James McConnell of Burlington, N. J., cut his hand and blood poisoning set in. The physicians said his hand would have to be amputated to save his life. He preferred death to the loss of his hand and died.

Preparations Being Made to Utilize Large Bodies of Zinc Ore.

Joseph Grandelmeier of Hamilton, Nevada, who is at the Lick House, San Francisco, informs a reporter of the Call that preparations are being made to utilize the large bodies of zinc ore which underlie the section of country on the line of the Eureka and Palisade Railway, about half way between those two points. The existence of this zinc ore has been known for a long time, in fact a shaft has been sunk through a solid body of ore, in a search for gold, which is from forty to sixty feet in width on the surface and continues to the depth of the shaft—about 300 feet—without any signs of diminution in quantity. No attention has been paid to the ore before because it has been deemed practically worthless, but now samples of it are being shipped to the zinc works at La Salle, Ill., the largest of that kind in the country, and if satisfactory freight rates can be secured a new and promising industry will be opened up in that section.

A Railroad to Kennedy.

The Central Nevada, published at Battle Mountain, says: The owners of the N. C. R. R. have been viewing the route from Lewis Junction to Kennedy, preparatory to extending the N. C. to the latter named place. The distance from Battle Mountain to Kennedy is nothing to speak of, and if the company takes hold of this proposed project it will be a great help to this county and would cause products to be landed at Kennedy for a less cost than from any other point we know of.

UNDER THE DOME.

How Congress Pursues the Even Tenor of Its Way—What This Administration Has Accomplished.

[By C. D. Van Duzer.]

Modern politics little concerns the people. That which our forefathers in their wisdom created to perpetuate our liberties has fallen far short of its object if a modern Congress is to be looked to for an example. Formerly what the people and the country desired was the actuating motive with Congress. It is no longer. Politics govern essentially every action. It is not what will do our country the most good, but what will perpetuate our party in power.

A PARTY OF RESISTANCE.

The peculiar conditions surrounding the two leading parties is in a measure responsible for this condition. The Democratic party is a party of resistance whose power has grown most when they suffered defeat. It has been always a party of resistance, of obstruction and so called reform since the inception of the government. The power of the Federalists, the first successful party in American politics, produced a party of opposition. This party of opposition was the Democratic party under Jefferson, the first indication of which is to be traced to Jefferson while still a member of Washington's cabinet. Born by virtue of opposition, bred in opposition for its existence it still thrives when in opposition to something. That is the reason why that party is weakest when in power. They are splendid fighters. They can conduct an aggressive fight but are weak as defenders. They are best at destroying and weakest in constructing. It is rather due to their history than an inherent trait.

Within the past thirty years no session of Congress in which the Democrats were dominant but was marked by a tearing down of legislation, by a series of repealing acts, by a wonderful amount of bluster concerning reform and retrenchment. They have never gone beyond this point in legislation. What the people want seems to cut little figure in these days with either party. Politics and their inexplicable exigencies has brought it to pass that the Democratic party must repeal what the Republican has enacted and that the Republicans by the very logic of the situation must defend what they have fathered.

REPEAL BILLS.

The present session of Congress fully illustrates the premises set forth above. They were called into extra session to repeal. They have repealed and have been repealing ever since. They repealed the Federal election laws, they attempted to repeal the Bank tax, and the only effort to constructive legislation, which was the seigniorage bill, met with disastrous veto in the hands of executive power. Incidentally there has been a great hue and a cry about reform, about retrenchment, about Republican extravagance. Inasmuch as the Republicans were extravagant it follows that the Democrats must be parsimonious and stingy.

The other great repeat will be the tariff repeal or the reenactment of the McKinley bill in a slightly modified form. What a travesty on common sense, what a perverse misrepresentation of party platforms and party utterances. From a thousand stumps and platforms the Democratic party proclaimed the McKinley bill as the quint essence of wickedness and now when the test comes all are clamoring for that which they condemned. From as many platforms and stumps they swore allegiance to silver and what did they do. This Congress will soon adjourn. It will have repealed and then appealed through false statements for endorsement. They will have enacted nothing. They will have when the country was in a state of financial distress cut off when they should have added. They will have economized when mild extravagance would have been better economy. They will have introduced reform and retrenchment that is but a prelude to a wilder extravagance.

REPUBLICAN OBSTRUCTION.

In the mean time the Republicans sit by, goad the Democrats, defend their positions, delay, obstruct and antagonize. The people in the mean time suffer. This is politics. There is mythical issue where once was a living issue.

In a desire to make party reputation and to pander to the voters there has been a flare of trumpets and a loud shouting and the two parties have worked themselves into a fine frenzy in their endeavors to pose before the people as apostles of a new era of prosperity and the inaugurations of some golden Eutopia. A government is better off in the hands of a party which constructs and builds up, which is a little extravagant, which protects and defends than in the hands of one whose ideality is to resist and tear down, whose power is strongest and efforts for good most effective when they can pretend to do and are in such a helpless minority that they cannot enact what would be vicious legislation.

THE MONEY QUESTION.

There is no disguising the fact that silver and finance are the greatest, most important and most vital questions before the American people. The tariff is but a corollary of which the silver question is the theorem. Tariff is local, the silver question universal. Settle the silver question and tariff will adjust itself. The two parties have torn the tariff travesty into shreds and a lot of tattered fragments of localism is all that is left. What the people want is money. What they desire is a larger circulating medium, and silver is the only solution of this ques-

Baldness is often preceded or accompanied by grayness of the hair. To prevent both baldness and grayness, use Hall's Hair Renewer, an honest remedy.

Some one broke the lock on the gate leading into the back yard of the Court-house a few nights since and unloaded a miscellaneous lot of household furniture, and, it is said, exchanged it for a cord of wood. Jack Caughlin says he did not give them a receipt for the furniture, and is waiting patiently for some one to come after it.

D. B. Boyd, our efficient County Treasurer, left last night for a short visit to the Midwinter Fair. Dan will endeavor to appear perfectly unconcerned at what he sees, but cable and electric cars, hotel elevators, etc., will all be new to him, and the cartoonist at the fair will have a subject to work on while Dan is in the city.

SCHOOL MATTERS.

According to the Census Marshal's report this school district numbers 103 school children, a gain of nearly twenty since last year. The addition to the school house, so greatly needed, will be proceeded with now, it is to be hoped, without any further annoying delays.

OBITUARY.

Our local newspaper has given up the ghost, and its editor, with his printing apparatus, has joined the exodus to Kennedy. That sheet has been in a moribund condition for some time, and the school election gave it the coup de grace, or in other words, snuffed out its feeble, flickering flame. Under ordinary circumstances the event would have been regarded with the deepest regret, but as it is, the people seem to take the matter with suggestive indifference, indeed it may be said to pass away unwept, unhonored and unsung.

It requires experience, knowledge, good judgment and brains to conduct a newspaper successfully. An editor must be in touch with the people, able to voice their sentiments and aspirations and handle in a masterly manner the burning questions of the day, whether local or national, and so contribute as much as possible towards their solution in accordance with the views and best interests of the public.

But the New Era's editor failed signally to comprehend and carry out the mission which he had rather presumptuously undertaken. He spread before his readers a hotch potch of insipid trivialities and undigested ideas which fell dead flat upon well informed, practical farmers and wide awake business men; while his obsequious devotion to those engaged in mining enterprises prompted him to publish the most exaggerated, flattering reports in regard to the mines, thereby converting the New Era into nothing better than a delusive ignis fatuus by alluring thither vast numbers of the unemployed to meet with the most grievous disappointment. Thus the paper in place of being an authority on matters pertaining to the district and of importance to the public fell into merited disrepute, forfeited the confidence of all and sundry and as it lacked the essential element of regeneration its sudden ending now is more to be regarded as welcome relief than a serious matter of regret.
